IN CHEE MOO ROLE

"THE Yellow Jacket," first of the three plays which will be given at the Columns on the University campus June 29-30 by the Coburn Players, has been termed "the play that has charmed the world." It was written by George C. Hazelton and Benrimo. When it was first played at the Fulton Theater, New York, the late Charles Frohman said: "That play will be seen all over the world."

This prediction has come true for the most part. With the exception of Paris, where its production was stopped by the outbreak of the war, "The Yellow Jacket" has been played in every national capital. It has been in St. Louis three times and will be there this year preceding the engagement here. It has been in Columbia twice.

The play is not a Chinese play translated into English. It is rather the English idea of what a Chinese play is. The same cast that has won the praise of New York critics and St. Louis critics will present "The Yellow Jacket" here.

The photograph above shows Mrs. Coburn in the role of "Chee Moo" in "The Yellow Jacket."

By United Press
LONDON, June 18.—Coupling freight cars on the Northwestern Railroad at Kenzie street and California avenue, Chicago, is what Paul Gassard of Council Bluffs, Ia., often looks back on reminiscently as he lies in the hospital here, recovering from a German bullet wound received at Vimy Ridge. Gassard helped defeat the murderous assault on the Royal Canadian Rifles at Vimy on Easter Monday. He was the first man to join the 97th Battalion, American Legion.

CAPITAL A MILITARY CITY

Grim Preparations for War Reflected in Washington's Appearance.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, June 18.—Washington as a war capital is a city of patriotism, enthusiasm and absolute confidence. It is like a big college town on the eve of an important football game, in which everybody is positive the home team will win. As yet it has none of the darkened streets and bereaved homes of London and Paris, none of the food regulations and casualty lists of Berlin and Vienna and no hint of the anarchy and riots which have hit Petrograd.

The city is affluster with flags and at night searchlights pick out the Stars and Stripes floating over many of the downtown buildings. The thump of the war-drum is frequently heard. The crash of martial music stirs historic Pennsylvania avenue. Soldiers and sailors mingle with the crowds, but they attract little attention. Bugles sound, the shrill fifes ring over the noise of traffic as the citizens go about their "business as usual."

In the midst of the most important period since Southern armies smashed at the capital's defenses 50 years ago, Washington refuses to believe there is cause for anything more than a feeling of implicit confidence that with every man and woman "in the play" the kaiser will be soundly thrashed and war's darker side will never throw a shadow over its gay street. There are guards at the Government buildings, where official passes or permits are demanded. This about sums up the war atmosphere visible to the casual observer in Washington.

Underneath it all there is the real, grim push of preparation for the titanic conflict, but these activities do not crop out on the surface. The people radiate confidence. Their attitude towards the great army now in process of organization is: "Eat 'em up boys, and get home soon. We'll wait for dinner."
